

Following a lecture on Chinese textiles by David Rosier at Shrewsbury College (organised by The Arts Society Shrewsbury), the following letter was received:

Hello Yvonne

Thank you very much for your kind words. I have passed your message onto the team and also our students who, I agree, demonstrated real maturity and such a keen interest in the lectures David delivered.

The day was full of really interesting information and wonderful examples of Textiles that the learners could analyse and photograph – David has been incredible in terms of giving up his time to us in the first place but also all the hard work he has put into adapting his lectures to create a bespoke day for us. We are very grateful to him. It has been a wonderful launch to our Textile Design project.

We are delighted to have such close links with the Arts Society and also look forwards to future opportunities of collaboration. I also wanted to thank Briony who has been a wonderful link between us and the Arts Society and who has worked really hard in communicating information to and fro and connecting different people together to help make this day happen and such a success.

Very best wishes,

Helen
